Co owner of Kimberden, located in Ocala, Florida, a premier training and sales facility of domestic and imported hunters and jumpers recognized both nationally and internationally for their experience and quality of horses which perform at the highest levels of competition. Dennis Mitchell, with over 50 years experience in the equine industry, is a former Grand Prix rider and trainer of Grand Prix riders including Olympic hopefuls and qualifiers, Aaron Vale and Todd Minikus. Dennis has been the trainer of numerous USEF National Champions in both the hunter and jumper divisions. Over the past four decades his riding and training has taken him to all corners of our country...east, west, north, and south. Dennis' enthusiasm and passion for the sport has remained constant through the years. At any given horse show he can be seen running between the short stirrup ring to the Grand Prix ring with equal enthusiasm and a smile on his face.
